Technology Updates a Double-Edged Sword

By Karen Skupien, kskeeg@thiel.edu

As students return to their dorms, classrooms, and lunch tables this fall, they will quickly notice the technological updates that have been put in place over the summer. The most obvious of these is the presence of wireless Internet in residence hall areas, a feature that most students have not had access to before.

In an interview, chief information officer Scott Ashley stated that the WiFi was first installed last semester and that significant changes have been made since then.

"We completed three large projects this summer... The first was the addition of WiFi in residence halls, with theme houses and fraternities getting access later this semester. The second project was the IT Help Desk, our new campus portal that provides a single sign-on access to technology resources on any device anywhere. The third change also provides an easy way to reset your network password. Finally, we quintupled Internet bandwidth by replacing our existing two 100 Mbps connections, with two 500 Mbps links. This allows faster file downloads and video streaming. This also required us to replace our current firewall and routers, and it looks as if this project was quite complete."

While it is certain that the updates have made the network more efficient, the students have not been without flaws.

"Connectivity has been an ongoing issue this year with the increase in network traffic. "Network nothing," re- marked Andrew Thomas, junior. "The computers (fail) all the time." Thomas also remarked that the new network inhibits connection to online pop-ups for many students."

Perhaps the biggest concern for many students is the lack of WiFi in some classes. "It’s frustrating to have the Internet have been the greatest issue this year with the increase in network traffic. "Network nothing," remarked Andrew Thomas, junior. "The computers (fail) all the time." Thomas also remarked that the new network inhibits connection to online pop-ups for many students."

Perhaps the biggest concern for many students is the lack of WiFi in some classes. "It’s frustrating to have the Internet fail all the time," Thomas said. "I haven’t been able to access any websites for my history class."

Ashley also encourages any students having technology issues to contact the student support center at studentsupport@thiel.edu for support.

Conference for SGA

by Kristina Cotton, kcotton@thiel.edu

In between exploring Germany, France, Italy, and Spain, students not only honed their foreign language abilities, but also developed leadership skills.

"The SGA needs to provide more opportunities to all students," Bri Tiedeman, SGA president, said. "This can be done by increasing our voter turnout and by providing more leadership opportunities for students."

During the conference, students discussed a variety of topics, including the introduction of a new core curriculum and the effects of the new core curriculum on student learning.

"The new core curriculum will help students develop critical thinking and problem-solving skills," said President David Waugaman. "This is an important skill for students to have in order to be successful in their future careers."

Neighbors:

Friday, September 19 and Sunday, September 21 8-10 p.m.: Imagine yourself 10 years from now, settling into your first home in a small neighborhood with your newborn child and your spouse. Now imagine that a fraternity full of crazy party animals moves in next door. That is the basic plot line of this comedy starring teen heart throb Zac Efron, Seth Rogen, and Dave Franco. The members of the frat are very welcoming of the family next door at first, but after an incident involving the police, things take a turn for the worst as a near war breaks out between the two households. If you enjoy comedies full of crazy pranks and drama, this is one that you will not want to miss.

22 Jump Street:
Friday, Sept. 26 and Sunday, Sept. 28 8-10 p.m.: If you saw the original 21 Jump Street, don’t miss out on this opportunity to experience the adventures of Schmidt (Jonah Hill) and Jenko (Channing Tatum). This time around, instead of going undercover in a high school, the duo disguises themselves as college students. Big changes are in store for them though, as their partnership is put to the test and they face what could potentially be the biggest drug bust of their careers.

serious risks of travel is malaria. Malaria can be prevented through the use of insect repellent, a long-sleeved shirt and pants, and a mosquito net.

On September 11, a small group of students from South America took a trip to the 10th Floor of the World Trade Center. The students were part of an exchange student program and were visiting New York City. The students had the opportunity to experience the history and culture of the city.

The students also visited the 9/11 Memorial & Museum, which is located on the site of the World Trade Center. The museum tells the story of the terrorist attack on September 11, 2001, and the subsequent recovery efforts. The students had the opportunity to view the museum’s exhibits and hear from survivors and family members of those who lost their lives.

Korean Thanksgiving

Day is in the United States. All Americans celebrate Thanksgiving Day on the fourth Thursday of November, and traditionally a 2-day feast and friends are gathered to get together for a special meal. The usual menu often includes turkey, stuffing, and sweet potatoes. Families may also attend religious services to give thanks for the year’s blessings.

In Korea, Thanksgiving Day is also known as Thanksgiving Day, but it is celebrated in a different way. In Korea, Thanksgiving Day is celebrated on November 20. The day is commemorated with a special meal, and families usually gather to enjoy a feast together.

The first Thanksgiving Day in the United States was celebrated in 1621, and it has been observed ever since. The holiday is a time for families to come together and to give thanks for the blessings of the past year.

The history of Thanksgiving Day is interesting and unique. It began in the early 17th century when the Pilgrims settled in what is now the United States. The Pilgrims were impressed by the generosity of the local Native Americans, who had shared their food with them during their first year in the new land.

In Korea, there is a similar tradition called Chuseok, which is celebrated on the 15th day of the eighth month of the lunar calendar. The day is a harvest festival, and families gather to enjoy a meal and to give thanks for the harvest. The day is also a time to remember ancestors and to reunite with family.

Although the celebrations differ, the core message of giving thanks is universal. Thanksgiving Day is a time to reflect on the blessings of the past year and to express gratitude for the opportunities and experiences that we have had.

Meet The New Faces of Thiel Faculty

by Amanda Zimmerman, AZimmerman@thiel.edu

On a campus as small as Thiel, introducing a new professor or two seems like it definitely been the case fairly recently. Thiel is also starting out her career here. She is excited that she is able to meet and befriend all kinds of questions regarding them. Where did they come from? What did they do before they came here? What should we know about them? We have the scoop! This edition we are featuring Professor Watts and Professor Petricini.

Professor Petricini was a former Prechool and Elementary school teacher, until 2004 when she began to have existing issues with her eyesight. Due to this circumstance, Professor Watts decided to make a change in her life. She went back to school at Clarion University, where she obtained a Bachelor’s and Master’s degree in the field of communication.

Professor Watts finds a passion in communication, especially radio. She was attracted to Thiel because of what she had heard about the small family community. Thiel is that she has the opportunity to pursue her two passions, Communications and Disorder. She was excited to come to the opening that was available for a faculty member to be in charge of running the radio station. Professor Watts is now the managing editor of Thiel’s radio station, Thiel Radio Station, as well as a part-time professor in the communications department. Though everything is coming together perfectly for Professor Watts, she is also pursuing her passion, teaching and communication in the classroom as well.

So far, Professor Watts’s favorite part about Thiel is that she has the opportunity to meet and get to know so many people here. Thiel is unlike many schools that she has encountered, in that it is a small family. She says that she is excited that she is able to work with and get to know the students and colleagues from across divisions.

Professor Tiffany Petricini is also new to the faculty. She attended University, where she obtained her Bachelor’s degree in communication. Studies had an emphasis on interpersonal communication. Before coming to Thiel, Professor Petricini was working on her obtaining her Master’s degree in Communication at Edinboro University.

Professor Petricini was looking for adjacent positions when and opportunity came to Thiel. There was an opening and she feels very fortunate to have found a position in a place that is close to where she lives. She is looking forward to being able to teach interpersonal communication, but also teaching much more due to the many different interactions that have been taking place. Both professors are bringing many new and exciting things to Thiel’s campus. They are both excellent professors who will help to not only teach, but inspire students. On top of being wonderful career women, they are also being led to making class more interesting and exciting, also teaching much more due to the many different interactions that have been taking place.

Both professors are bringing many new and exciting things to their classrooms. These professors consider themselves to be very family oriented. Professor Petricini lives with her husband, her toddler son, and their two dogs and three cats. Professor Watts was excited to share about her two grandchildren, who are the light of her life. Be sure to stop by and introduce yourself to these awesome professors that Thiel has the pleasure of adding to the faculty.

Students Raise Awareness through NSSLHA

by Kelsey Smith, ksmith@thiel.edu

On Saturday, Sept. 15, NSSLHA (National Student Speech Language and Hearing Association) hosted a fundraiser to raise money for communication disorders. Students made homemade baked goods to sell at the football game which ranged from Oreo cookies to Nutella hot chocolate. The seniors this year in NSSLHA are: President Jenna Farina, Chey Bevevino, Alliana Hardgrove, Paige Raines, Kelsey Smith, Vice-President Katelyn Wise, Jenna Farina, Chey Rose, and Alex Hall.

NSSLHA is a small club on campus that is associated Mostly with Communication Science and Disorder (CSD) majors and also psychology majors. However, everyone is welcomed to join! Every year students in NSSLHA raise money to put on fundraisers throughout the year. It is their mission to create awareness and to educate others whether it comes to speech and/or hearing. Every year they attend St. Paul’s Snokeball, which consists of serving the residents appetizers and socializing with them.

Comments from NSSLHA state that it is such a heart-warming experience to spend time with the residents and hear the experiences they had had ages. They plan on doing more community service this year at St. Paul’s. For example, they will be presenting games (as much as they can) to the residents. More comments from students of NSSLHA state that it is always an amusing experience to see how competitive they are with one another and also to see how much fun they have. Last year they held a walk-a-thon for “Small Steps in Speech” which was to help children with speech and/or language disorders take the steps needed to be better communicators. Each of them got up bright and early to walk for a few miles to show their support. They raised almost $200 which they donated all to Small Steps in Speech. They hope to raise more money for this cause in the spring. Even though they are a small club on campus their capabilities are endless! NSSLHA has a special place in each of their hearts that makes them proud to be part of such a great club offered on campus. Thank you to all who helped raise money for their bake sale!

Thursday. The term “angry feminist” strikes again.

Consider Morgan’s College Words
by Hunter Michaelis, hmichaelis@thiel.edu

I should be ready to write an explanation afterward.

For the record, I don’t usually speak up during the auditions. It’s much easier to just listen to everyone else and observe the dynamics between everyone and around me. It was different, because while everyone was pummeling each other and taking sides, I couldn’t help feeling that everyone was asking for more; that another crisis has just won too few of the battle.

So when I said, “We’ll just go with the flow,” I mean it to a little bit (and a little louder). I’ve already decided what I wanted to say, but the point behind what I said would be repeated a thousand times before it’s done. What would be left is to die, I am done with this show.

But as a feminist, I still don’t understand anything. I accepted, and realized that my job was to prepare me for the type of student I was, and pack it up that day, and harden the core of the college so much that a student from another first class never could.

Some of you just pick it up with it and get it done. If it is possible, don’t tell me anything that you are not expected to.

If you have not seen Singapore, think some of your assignments and your friends are out of your league. Even if they are here to see you, you can’t take a break if you don’t start to begin. Sometimes there are no surprises that you could do it.

In your heart, you know that you should have anything to give.

Some people will tell you that it is like a really fun and beautiful world, and makes you love the first time. It could be that you have nothing to be.

Is there anything you can tell me about your first group of the day?

I want to learn something. You can’t know nothing about something that you have known.

So, the next time you speak or write, you can’t have a hidden meaning, or you can’t say “you.”

I hope you are ready to listen.

Consider Morgan’s Words

WARNING:

The first time I saw Titanic, I was about 10 years old. It was a scary movie for me, and I was scared of the ocean. It was also a movie that made me want to see more. I was hooked by the end of the movie, and I wanted to see more movies. I have watched Titanic several times since then, and I still enjoy watching it.

The movie was directed by James Cameron, and was released in 1997. It was a massive success, and is considered to be one of the greatest movies ever made. The story of the Titanic has become part of popular culture, and is often used as a metaphor for love and loss.

The movie tells the story of Jack and Rose, two young and beautiful people who fall in love on the Titanic. They are from different backgrounds, but they are drawn to each other. Their relationship is seen as a symbol of true love and passion, but it is also doomed to end.

The movie is also known for its stunning special effects, which were state of the art at the time. The scenes of the Titanic sinking, as well as the underwater scenes, are still breathtaking today.

I would recommend Titanic to anyone who is interested in seeing a movie that is both entertaining and thought-provoking. It is a movie that will stay with you long after the credits roll.

Why my favorite movie is terrible...

featuring Titanic

Is it terrible? It could be argued that Titanic is a terrible movie. The story is often criticized for being overly sentimental and predictable. However, I believe that the movie is not terrible at all.

The movie is a love story, and love stories are often sentimental and predictable. The movie also has some stunning visual effects, which are so realistic that it is easy to forget that we are watching a movie.

The movie is also a movie about loss and love. It is a movie that is about the power of love and the length that people will go to be with the person they love.

The movie is not about Titanic, it is about Jack and Rose and their love story. Titanic is simply the backdrop for their story.

In conclusion, I believe that Titanic is not a terrible movie. It is a movie that is about love, loss, and the power of the human spirit. It is a movie that will make you laugh, cry, and think about the meaning of life. Titanic is a movie that I would recommend to anyone who is interested in seeing a movie that is both entertaining and thought-provoking.

Tomcats Fall to Bison in Home Opener; Saints On-Deck

by Paul Connolly, pconnelly@thiel.edu

The Tomcats were held to just 92 yards of total offense Saturday night at Alumni Stadium. Sophomore QB Ryan Radke went 14-22 in the air for 97 yards and 3 TDs including a nice connection to Tim Walker on a third-and-goal situation to put Thiel up early in the first quarter. Junior WR Ben Howard also contributed to the Tomcats’ scoring effort, completing a 10-yd pass from Radke in the second quarter.

Both teams went with a four-man rush from the box and a four wide receiver set until Radke found freshman wideout Mike McLaughlin on a 9-yd TD pass to end the half. It appeared as if the Tomcats had everything going for them in the second half; driving in a 28-yd drive for a touchdown, a 10 yd drive for a touchdown and punted to the hot Cleveland Browns.

The Cleveland Browns were able to muster s combined 2 yards on their next two drives combined. Even after Radke finally intercepted Big Ben, Cleveland’s offense began to sputter. Antonio Brown and Le’Veon Bell were taking a punch from the Tomcats’ defense, Thiel had one sack and two tackles for losses, including a sack of Mack Jones from the other end zone paser.

Coming off of a 623 yd. 1 TD, Bobby Cundiff is known for his long field goals and has to punt deep within their own territory after a sack and negative pass play. This time, the Steelers would not fail.

Women’s volleyball wrapped up the last day of the season on Saturday, losing 3-0 against Adrian College in a tough battle. The Tomcats ended positive on a 3-0 win over Mount Aloysius to wrap up the season with a 5-6 record.

Senior WR Ron Howard also contributed to the Tomcats’ scoring effort, completing a 10 yd pass from Radke in the second quarter.

Cleveland’s offense began to sputter. Antonio Brown and Le’Veon Bell were taking a punch from the Tomcats’ defense, Thiel had one sack and two tackles for losses, including a sack of Mack Jones from the other end zone passer.

The second half began with lots of fire to add to the Tomcats’ scoring effort. Leading 25-17, 25-18, 25-22 and 25-23, you can see why the Tomcats put in the Mosley twins. Brueggman had eight kills and four blocks while Senior Lauren Boyer had 11 kills and three blocks. Brueggman was known for her serve, hitting in the back row of the back court.
