

History

Where the past shapes the future.

Think Critically. Solve Problems. Shape the World.

Did You Know?

History majors develop some of the most in-demand skills employers seek—critical thinking, research, analysis, writing, and communication. By studying people, movements, cultures, and global events, historians learn how the past informs today's decisions and tomorrow's possibilities.

Job Outlook

Careers that rely on strong analytical thinking, communication, and research skills are projected to remain in demand across education, government, law, public service, business, and nonprofit sectors (U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics).

History graduates are well positioned for career flexibility, leadership roles, and continued success in graduate and professional programs.

Career Possibilities

Students graduating with a degree in history can work in various industries, including:

- Law
- Education
- Government
- Museums/Archives
- Media/Publishing
- Business
- Nonprofit
- Technology

Specialized Roles

A history degree also provides excellent preparation for graduate and professional study in areas such as law, education, public administration, political science, museum studies, archival science, and library science. Coursework may include:

- U.S. and World History
- Historical Research Methods
- Sports in American History
- Cultural and Social History
- Political and Economic History
- Topics in History & Film

What makes Thiel's program different?

Thiel's history program emphasizes close faculty mentorship, small classes, and hands-on learning experiences that bring history to life. Professors know you by name and work closely with you to connect historical study to your career goals—whether that's teaching, public service, law school, or graduate study.

With opportunities for research, internships, and experiential learning in a supportive, home-like campus community, Thiel prepares you to think deeply, communicate confidently, and make an impact—wherever your path leads.

Take the Next Step

- Explore thiel.edu/admissions
- Visit www.thiel.edu/visit
- Unlock financial aid fafsa.gov (Thiel FAFSA Code: 003376)

Your
EXCEPTIONAL FUTURE starts HERE!

THIEL
COLLEGE